Joseph “Joey” Lopes Park made official at ribbon-cutting ceremony

dwilson@dwilsononline.com

West Sacramento has a brand new park, and on Friday, June 24, it was made official at a ribbon-cutting ceremony where the family of the park's namesake Joseph “Joey” Lopes shared stories about the famous boxer who called the area home during his life.

The park, which is the 35th park in the city, is located next to the Parkside Apartments along Sycamore Avenue off of West Capitol and features a newly-installed piece of artwork, which was created by Denver, Colorado artist Michael Clapper.

The $70,000 art structure—which Clapper says represents “fighting for community”—was approved by the City Council on Jan. 13 with Clapper's piece being chosen over 75 other submissions after the City of West Sacramento's Arts, Culture & Historic Preservation Commission, the Yolo Arts Council, city staff and others gave input.

The park cost $8.2 million to install and features a garden, benches, picnic tables, water fountains, two playgrounds, — one each for younger and older children — a basketball court and plenty of walking paths and green grass. The park has several trees as well, but it'll be a while before they provide any shade. In the meantime, there are two shade shelters located at each side of the park.

Superintendent of West Sacramento Parks & Ground Sam Cooney explained that the project has been in the works for six years.

“It's been a long time in the making,” said Cooney. “The state awarded the city $4.1 million and then we put in matching funds.”

Schmidt Design Group Principal J.T. Barr added that the park's design incorporated a lot of feedback from the residents of West Sacramento.

“The design really started with the inspiration of the community,” said Barr. “All of the forms and structures, the walkways [were] really inspired by West Sacramento and the agricultural heritage that is here, so we really wanted to embrace the community and express that in the park, so the park really becomes a reflection of the community.

The ceremony began at 10 a.m. with a few words from West Sacramento City Manager Martin Tuttle, who thanked the landscapers, city inspector and project manager among others who worked on the park.

“What we do in West Sacramento is we take local money and we go out and find other money to match with it,” said Tuttle. “That's how we're able to do great things for the city.”

Martin then introduced City

Council Member Chris Ledesma, who spoke about the park and the collaborative effort it took to complete.

“As many of you know, this site, for a long time, was an eye-soar,” said Ledesma as children played with bubbles and ran around in the grass area just behind where the audience of approximately 100 West Sacramento citizens, Lopes family members and city leaders was seated. “And now look at this

City Council Approves Tax Ordinance

By Jan Dalske
The News-Ledger

When the West Sacramento City Council met June 1, they conducted the first reading of Ordinance 16-6. This ordinance will adopt a quarter of a cent general retail transactions and use tax (sales tax). This tax will be administered by the State Board of Equalization.

The WSCC also directed staff to prepare a ballot measure which would create a quarter cent general sales tax. The revenue which will be derived from the sales tax could be used to enhance existing City of West Sacramento (CWS) services. It will also provide much needed funding for certain Strategic Plan initiatives.

Core CWS services, such as early learning programs for children, and road rehabilitation do not have funding sources that are reliable and sustainable. This funding is required to meet both short term and long term funding needs.

Ordinance 16-6 was approved by two-thirds of the full City Council, in this case, four members. On June 15, there was a second reading. This action will formally approve the ballot measure language for the November 2016 election.

The proposed ballot language states that this tax will be used “to fund CWS services and initiative such as repairing roads, building and maintaining bicycle and pedestrian trails, reducing homelessness and its community impacts, improving educational and career opportunities for youth, and enhancing internet access and the use of smart technologies, shall the CWS enact a ¼ percent transactions and use tax (sales tax) raising approximately $3.3 million annually on an ongoing basis for general governmental purposes.”

If the proposed measure is approved by a simple majority of voters, City staff will return to the WSCC for direction on developing an expenditure plan for the new general revenue. Yolo County is also considering new sales tax measures for the November ballot. If both measures pass, the residents of West Sacramento could be taxed by the City of West Sacramento and Yolo County.

4 acres we're sitting on today. Congratulations to everybody who had a hand in this."

Ledesma went on to say that just as it took the entire community to design and implement the park, it'll take the entire community to keep it clean, safe and welcoming in the years to come.

He then announced a new park watch program, designed to cut down on vandalism and crime, which will be headed up by West Sacramento PD Officer Warren Estrada.

"It's up to all of us to keep an eye on this park and it's up to all of us to work with the police department to make sure we maintain this park and keep the spirit of Joey Lopes going," said Ledesma.

Ledesma then introduced Silvestre Gilmete Jr., the nephew of Joey Lopes, who called up several other family members before beginning his speech about his uncle's impact.

A hometown hero who lived near Sycamore all of his life, Joey Lopes was a boxer in the late 1940s and throughout the 1950s. Lopes always wore his name and the words "West Sacramento" on the robes he wore to the ring and made sure that everyone knew he was from West Sacramento, not Sacramento.

He competed at the Memorial Auditorium and the world-famous Madison Square Garden among many other venues. In 1948, Lopes was selected for the U.S. Olympic boxing team and he went on to fight in three matches with the Lightweight championship up for grabs.

Following his retirement, Lopes was a community leader, working for the West Sacramento Sanitary District, the West Sacramento Optimist Club and the West Sacramento Babe Ruth Baseball League.

The park's art features a silhouette of Lopes with his arm reaching out in a boxing punch and will light up at night as the sun sets behind it. On the flipside of the structure is a map of the West Sacramento area.

After Gilmete Jr. thanked the city and everyone involved on behalf of the family, shared some history of his uncle and introduced longtime friend Raul Deanda, who told some stories about his friend's illustrious career and life's journey, the ceremony ended with the cutting of the ribbon and loud cheers and applause from everyone in attendance.

As children filled the playgrounds, shot hoops at the basketball court and ran around the grassy areas, adults snapped photos of the artwork and the park while others enjoyed snacks and conversation.

Gilmete Jr. expressed the gratitude of his family for the city naming the park after his uncle.

"This is a tremendous honor," said Gilmete Jr. who explained that the family petitioned to have the park's name changed from Sycamore Park to Joey Lopes Park after learning it was being installed, a motion that was met with a unanimous decision from the city. "My uncle was about his community and it being so close to where he lived as a kid and as an adult and to see that this park incorporates a playground for children to be able to enjoy, half-court basketball for any age to enjoy and the community garden with my grandparents [having had a farm here], it's just incredible."

Obituary

Andrew James Johas

Andrew James Johas, 67, passed away unexpectedly on June 25, due to a sudden onset of aggressive leukemia. He was born on Sept. 13, 1948, and was a life-long resident of Sacramento. He graduated from McClatchy High School and Sacramento City College and received his BS and MS in Agricultural Education from UC Davis.

He started his career as an agricultural teacher at Delta High School in Clarksburg, then went into farm banking and farm management. Andy was gifted with both the plant management and financial planning expertise required to run successful farming operations. At the height of his career he ran one of the nine largest farm-management companies in the nation, managing close to 500,000 acres of farmland for groups of investors. He recently focused on growing his own cherries and wine grapes with plans to open his own winery. His skill, knowledge and ability to work with groups was extraordinary and he was almost always hugely successful.

Andy was the proud son of the late James Johas, a Greek immigrant who came to this country at the turn of the century, and Dolly (Meacci) Johas, the daughter of Italian immigrants. He accomplished all that was the best of first generation children. He worked extremely hard, adhered to traditions, gave back to his community, and made his parents very proud. His parents championed all that he did and supported his every endeavor. It was through the beautiful network of people who came to this country to succeed that he got the opportunity to pursue his greatness. His father had invested in a young recent immigrant Angelo Tsakopoulos who, when he was looking for someone trustworthy to manage farmland, tapped Andy, who then went on to contract with even more developers.

During his younger years he was adept at both baseball and football. He reached championships in both sports. He was strong, and smart, and talented, but it was his heart that made him stand apart. He did everything with the intention of doing it well and right.

He was proud of his work with the Rotary club, sitting on the Board of Directors of the Lutheran High School, the Greek organizations AHEPA, Greek Professional Association, and making a major contribution to the Greek Church of the Annunciation's building fund in the name of his parents. He worked every year at the Fourth of July booth for the Rotarians and contributed to almost all requests from worthwhile causes with time, money or wine for events.

His other interests included raising and racing pigeons, coin collector/dealer, oil painting, Corvette cars, financial planning, farm management, water resource management, car racing, and sports. Andy had a quick and agile mind, a gift for money management, an interest in helping others and doing whatever he was involved in the right way.

Andy leaves a large loving family as well a close relatives he loved and cared for very much. He will be missed greatly.

In lieu of flowers, please give donations to the Leukemia Association, your local SPCA or the Greek Church of the Annunciation's building fund.

Congratulations Erin on Poplar Street: City of West Sacramento drought spotlight honoree for June

When Erin moved into her house, landscaping was nonexistent. There was nothing but Bermuda grass and a nearly dead tree.

Having dreamed of a turf-less, low-water and low-maintenance front yard for years, Erin used her knowledge as a Master Gardener to make the change. She planted several lavender creeping lantanas, a crape myrtle tree, English lavender plants and more; surrounding all of the plantings with a generous layer of mulch.

Unknown to her at the time, there were crocosmia bulbs in the soil, which came to life with a little water and now provide a nice contrast to the lantana with their orange-red flowers. Bees and butterflies abound. Over the years, iris and other low-water-use plants have been added. Mulch is applied as needed to keep the soil moisture and temperature even.

Congratulations Erin, you are the West Sacramento June Drought Spotlight Honoree!

Aviso de Audiente Publican

La Ciudad de West Sacramento recibirá fondos del Programa de Subsidios Globales para el Desarrollo Comunitario (CDBG, por sus siglas en inglés) del Department de Vivienda y Desarrollo Urbano (HUD, por sus siglas en inglés) del 1 de julio 2016 hasta el 30 de junio 2017. Para ser elegible para fondos de CDBG, HUD requiere que las ciudades con asignación de Derecho de Recepción desarrollen un Plan Consolidado de Cinco Años para evaluar las necesidades de los residentes y vecindarios de ingresos bajos y moderados. El Plan Consolidado establece metas para el aprovechamiento de los recursos disponibles para proporcionar una vivienda digna, un entorno de vida adecuado y expansión de oportunidades económicas. También se requiere un Plan de Acción Anual que designa el uso previsto de los fondos en el año fiscal 2016/2017. La Ciudad anticipa que recibirá $429,460 en fondos federales CDBG y aproximadamente $100,000 en Ingresos de Programa CDBG durante el año fiscal 2016/2017.

Una audiencia pública final con respecto al Plan Consolidado de Cinco Años y el Plan de Acción Anual se llevará a cabo ante el Consejo Municipal el 7 de julio 2016 a las 7:30 p.m. en el Centro Cívico de West Sacramento, 1110 West Capitol Avenue, West Sacramento, CA 95691.

El Plan Consolidado preliminar y el primer Plan de Acción Anual estará disponible para comentario público del 31 de mayo hasta el 30 de junio 2016 en la Ciudad de West Sacramento, Departamento de Desarrollo Económico y Vivienda, 1110 West Capitol Avenue, West Sacramento, CA 95691. Los documentos preliminares están disponibles en www.cityofwestsacramento.org. Las actividades siguientes están propuestas para financiación en 2016/2017.

* Construcción de mejoras a lo largo de River Walk Park Trail al norte del puente de la Calle "I" en la zona de Washington Neighborhood Target Area, incluyendo la pavimentación por proporcionar funciones de acceso de acuerdo con la Ley Sobre Estadounidenses con Discapacidades, iluminación y seguridad. $343,568.

* Administración general y planificación. $85,892.

Todos los fondos CDBG deben ser utilizados para cumplir con uno de los tres objetivos nacionales de CDBG: 1. beneficio para las personas de ingresos bajos; 2. eliminación de los tugurios y tizon; o 3. necesidades de emergencia urgentes. Los fondos de CDBG se pueden utilizar para una amplia gama de actividades que incluyen la infraestructura pública y parques que sirven vecindarios residenciales de ingresos bajos; vivienda asequible; servicios públicos; proyectos que crean nuevos empleos para personas de ingresos bajos; y los servicios públicos, tales como refugios, centros de salud, centros para personas de la tercera edad o centros juveniles.

Se requerirá una última audiencia pública antes de que los planes puedan ser sometidos a HUD por su aprobación. De acuerdo con la Ley Sobre Estadounidenses con Discapacidades (ADA, por sus siglas en inglés), si necesita ayuda para participar en la audiencia pública comuníquese con el Secretario Municipal. Se le pide al público avisar con 72 horas de anticipación si requieren ayuda para hacer las adaptaciones razonables o servicios de interpretación disponibles para asegurar accesibilidad a la audiencia pública. El ayuntamiento es accesible a personas discapacitadas. Comentarios por escrito podrán presentarse hasta el 30 día junio 2016 a la siguiente dirección: Louise Collis, Senior Program Manager, City of West Sacramento, 1110 West Capitol Avenue, West Sacramento, CA 95691. BRUNWORTH be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act .

(This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action). A HEARING on the petition will be held in this court as follows: 07/25/16 at 9:00AM in Dept. 11 located at 1000 MAIN STREET, WOODLAND, CA 95695. IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code.

Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law. YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.

Meet the artist: Jojo Gillies

Stepping into the home of a talented West Sacramento artist

By Monica Stark
editor@news-ledger.com

Years ago when she traveled to Africa – before it got too commercial – “before man wiped it out,” West Sacramentan Jojo Gillies fell in love with the landscape and the animals there. “It was amazing,” she says as we converse about one of the paintings on her wall. It’s of Cecil, the male South-west African lion who was wounded with an arrow by an American big game hunter on July, 1 2015. Always having wanted to paint a lion, a voice inside her hadn’t pushed her to create one – that is, not until the death of Cecil. With sadness in his face, the painted Cecil came through with what one might describe as divine intervention.

“An angel paints through my hand. I say thank you every time I finish a painting... When the sad and tragic story of Cecil came up, something in my head said, ‘Paint Cecil now,’” Jojo said.

An album of artwork sits in her trailer home and she describes the varying degree of artistic talent that spans the more than 100 pages of paintings that she’s created. “That album has 100 pages and it’s full. The first year, they were pretty awful. They were laughable they were so awful.”

A subjective statement, Jojo’s words can be taken lightly however as she speaks words of encouragement to beginning artists she has mentored through out her lifetime. “Don’t get discouraged because you evolve,” she says. “You learn what your brush will do. For me, I just paint. As I haven’t had instruction, I don’t have rules.” As a child growing up in New Zealand, Jojo has always been drawn to painting and art, especially after the passing of her father when she was just 9 years old. Leaving her mother in dire financial circumstances, Jojo was sent to work in a lampshade factory where she painted lampshades “with the grown ladies.”

“They would stamp nursery rhymes like ‘Little Boy Blue’ on the lampshades. It was like a stencil and then we would paint them. And they would go to big fancy department stores. I loved that work and did it on my school holidays. I would have loved to grown up to be one of those ladies.”

Stunned her mother allowed her to attend Elam School of Art between the ages of 13 and 15, Jojo learned about dimension and other artistic techniques. She had a dream she would tint wedding photos for a career, but life happened and she got married at age 18 and didn’t think about art until many years later when she came to America.

She and her husband lived for many years in Campbell (near San Jose) and it was there friends asked her to hold a class. “They said, ‘teach us to paint.’ My husband lined the garage with my artwork. I had a little studio in there,” she recalls.

No matter where she lived, people have taken notice of her talents. When her husband got a job in the Middle East, history repeated. People saw through the window she was painting and again the question arose: “Will you teach us?”

“It was so lovely. Our husbands were stuck in the sand and we were painting,” she said.

When she and her husband returned to California, it wasn’t too much later, that he passed away. And unlike other tragedies she’s lived through, this time art wasn’t an outlet. She moved to West Sacramento and it was a long time she didn’t paint. After a car accident, years later her insurance company encouraged her to get therapy in South Sacramento. Along her drive there, she passed a ceramics factory and found a new passion: painting ceramics. Pointing at a vase in her living room, she said, “Somebody told me it is worth over $1,000.”

A member of the West Sacramento Art Guild, Jojo helps organize the annual outdoor show each summer. One year, a special visitor led to Gillies’ work teaching underprivileged children. She remembers rushing home that day. When she met the children, she realized “they didn’t have a clue” when it came to art. So, she thought with collage they could glue the pictures as she guided them. “I would touch up with paint and they would take home a nice picture and they would end up all happy.”

Come meet Jojo at her very own “One Man Show”

Matías Bombal's Hollywood

The BFG
The MPAA has rated this PG
Walt Disney Studios Motion Pictures brings us Steven Spielberg's labor of love, "The BFG", based on the beloved 1982 Roald Dahl children's book about the dream catching Big Friendly Giant. This is not the first time that the story has reached the screen. There was an animated version released in England by Brian Cosgrove in 1989.

Spielberg makes this telling of "The BFG" more real for us by bringing together live actors and movie magic to tell the story of a little orphan girl, who by chance, spies a giant lumbering down the street outside her orphanage and her curiosity gets the better of her. Once seen by the giant, she's captured and whisked far, far, away to the home of the giant, where she is wondering why she is being detained there. The BFG informs her that now that she is aware of the existence of giants like himself, that he can't risk word getting out for fear of that the giants might hunted and captured by humans.

Little Ruby Barnhill is featured in her first feature role as Sophie, the curious orphan girl whose curiosity leads her to adventure. Last year's Oscar winner for best supporting actor, Mark Rylance, plays the Big Friendly Giant. Rylance is turning out to be a good luck charm for Spielberg and it was while "Bridge of Spies" was being photographed that the famous director decided he would be perfect for the role .

With "The BFG", Spielberg renders a world of fantasy that is captivating and beautiful, even for adults. Pure screen delight which is given another layer so often missing in movies today, an orchestral element underscoring most of the action, as classic films had always done as a staple of good storytelling. The music helps to meld the elements of story, performances and settings into pure fantasy. Spielberg's long-time composer and friend John Williams has written the score. The curtain opens on what I consider one of the most charming movies made for children in recent memory. It is fun and fantastic; a splendid entertainment in which Spielberg makes lasting impressions with great images that will linger long in your memory. Don't miss "The BFG"!

Swiss Army Man
The MPAA has rated this R
Dead Daniel Radcliffe and stranded Paul Dano adventure in the absurd. Photo: Joyce Kim, A24
A24 releases "Swiss Army Man" another venture in to the unexpected for which the studio is famous. Fresh from their recent release of the imaginative "The Lobster", here is another venture into the absurd. Absurd in the sense of unreal and strange, not in a dismissive sense. "Swiss Army Man" stars Paul Dano and Daniel Radcliffe in what may only be said are fantastic performances in an unreal setting, getting more ludicrous and impossible as the story advances.

In the opening sequence we see trash floating on the water with desperate writings of "Save Me" all over each object floating past, leading one to think this is from a man in a modern shipwreck, lost on some shore, fading away from exposure and lack of fresh water and food. Throughout you are questioning what is real or what, may just possibly be, a dream in the mind of a dog. Well, not really a dog, but I'm still on the kick of just how absurd this movie is. Why? Because Radcliffe plays a corpse, "Manny", which washes up on the shore. He's dead the entire time. Paul Dano's character, Hank, is at the point of suicide on this shoreline when Manny beaches. Hank rushes up to him hoping that he has some glimmer of a sign of life. What Hank does have is a remarkable case of post-mortem flatulence. From this point forward, we see just why the movie is titled "Swiss Army Man". Hank uses Manny's corpse, which he takes everywhere, the way a man might use a Swiss army knife. His flatulence is used to light fires, his teeth to shave, and his arms to cut wood. Moreover, Hank's loneliness and seclusion are alleviated by Manny's presence, and a friendship develops. Friendship? Beginning in the way one might have a friendship with a teddy bear, gradually Manny's corpse becomes animated, and conversations between the two begin. Then a relationship forms. You begin to dismiss the fact that Manny's dead, although he looks dead throughout the picture. The increasing strangeness of this movie as the story advances, which was beautifully photographed by Larkin Seiple, becomes fascinating to watch. Is this some crazed madness? I am unable to reveal how the picture ends, for you might just be that adventurous type of moviegoer that would find this type of offering of interest. I am at a loss to fully describe it and odd it is. I did like it quite a bit and found the performances outstanding, yet there are crude elements which leave the tang of flatulence. This movie is a real gas and not for everyone.

Public Input Sought on Clerk-Recorder/Assessor/Registrar of Voters

With the retirement of Yolo County Clerk-Recorder//Assessor/Registrar of Voters Freddie Oakley, the Yolo

County Board of Supervisors has embarked on a process to appoint a successor to complete the remainder of the term ending Jan. 8, 2019. While statute does not allow the board to call for a mid-term election, they have an interest in obtaining public input on the skills and qualities necessary to carry out the duties of the office. Yolo County residents can provide feedback by either: 1) attending the Jan. 12 Board of Supervisors meeting, held at 9 a.m. in Board Chambers, Room 206 of the Erwin Meier Administration Building at 625 Court St. in Woodland; or 2) by completing the survey found on www.yolocounty.org by Jan. 22.
